ARCHITEKTUR
GALERIE
BERLIN
SATELLIT
Architektur Galerie Berlin was founded in 1999 by architect Ulrich Müller. Within the multifaceted Berlin exhibition scene, the gallery serves as a unique venue to examine architecture, distinct from conventional exhibitions. With six exhibitions every year showcasing influential architects, the gallery delivers the highest level of professional communication about architecture. Designs and buildings are presented in conceptual exhibitions developed solely for the gallery.

Since 2006, the gallery is located in a listed building on the legendary Karl-Marx-Allee near Alexanderplatz in Berlin-Mitte. In 2016, SATELLIT was added as a complementary space. Located next to the main space, it is dedicated to research and crossover projects as well as lectures, screenings, and public debates.

Architektur Galerie Berlin maintains lively exchange with numerous leading institutions, international curators, and an extensive media network. Since 2010, the gallery has published bimonthly calendar AAB – Architektur Ausstellungen Berlin, which highlights current architecture exhibitions in Berlin. In 2014 it added the website AEX – Architecture Exhibitions International. In 2018, the gallery initiated the annual AEW – Architecture Exhibitions Weekend, which is the only one of its kind worldwide.
